

At the House of Hope:

- 85% of families come here from domestic violence backgrounds
- 95% of families achieve at least 2 goals in the areas of education, employment, and housing
- 95% of families graduate into stable housing and enroll in Aftercare

Most families are with House of Hope between six to twelve months before entering long-term housing. Upon graduation from the program, families remain connected to a caring network of support for several years through our Aftercare Program.

OUR STORY

Since 1990, Mamma's Hands has been a beacon of support and hope for the homeless in the greater Western Washington community.

After a meaningful experience with a father and son living on the streets, founders Denny and Leslie Hancock recruited family and friends to help feed the homeless. As the number of those in need grew, the Hancock's knew they had to do more, especially for the vulnerable women and children they saw struggling on the streets. Today, Mamma's Hands serves hundreds of homeless families and individuals annually through our House of Hope Program.

Over the years Mamma's Hands has stayed true to our vision that there is hope in every individual! We are grateful to our ever-expanding network of supporters who make lasting change possible for those we serve.

"From the bottom of my heart, I thank God for placing us at Mamma's Hands. It is a beautiful place that protected us from day one. There are not enough words to express my gratitude to the amazing staff. They always treated me with respect, patience and a lot of love."
